Dear Sir/Madam,

Re: Public submission on the Code of Practice for the Management of Dogs and Cats in Shelters and Pounds (Revision 1)

PetRescue is a not-for-profit organisation that finds new families for homeless and abandoned pets. We support more than 850 pounds, shelters and rescue groups nationally, to improve animal rehoming programs and encourage pet adoption in the Australian community. To date, more than 85,000 pets have found new homes thanks to their PetRescue listings, making PetRescue a central hub for animal welfare organisations, independent rescue, foster care groups, and pet lovers.

PetRescue believes that all organisations who place pets in new homes, have a responsibility to do so in an ethical and responsible manner, regardless of whether they are a small non-profit group or a large multi-million dollar pound or shelter. To this end, we promote a Rescue Member Code of Ethics which includes screening of adopters, pre-adoption and ongoing after-care for adopters, setting public expectations to a high standard. We also require desexing of all pets before placement. [PetRescue COE] We offer our members support through the development of large awareness campaigns (e.g. the national PEDIGREE Adoption Drive), resources and documents (e.g. PetFoster.com.au) and an informative monthly e-newsletter for rescuers, 'The Pet Rescuer'.

We are pleased to see the Victorian Code of Practice for the Management of Dogs and Cats in Shelters and Pounds is being reviewed to become more aligned with the progressive beliefs of the modern pet owning community. With 63% of the 7.5 million households owning pets [RSPCA] Australian's have embraced the love of animals in our lives. It is vital that animal pounds and shelters reflect this growing compassion for pets and the expectation that animals going into the sheltering system will be given optimal care and every chance at being rehomed.

However, PetRescue disagrees with the onerous and exclusionary approach taken in this Code, towards community foster care groups and individual animal rescuers. Experience has shown that not only do these community groups play a vital role in rehabilitating and rehoming pets, 'foster care' is both a cost effective, and welfare centric resource for over-stretched pounds and shelters.

Key points to consider:

1. The reach, contribution and capacity of community foster care groups and individual animal rescuers is enormous and growing nationally.

- Community groups work cooperatively with local pounds and shelters, taking pets at the end of their impound period, or those pets need extra care (such as neonatal kittens), or those pets who are simply 'overflow' and need an alternative to euthanasia. The modern trend of networks of community foster care groups and individual animal rescuers working in conjunction with their local pounds and shelters has made a significant contribution to shelter capacity and adoptions. These groups are a valuable resource and often under appreciated resource of the animal sheltering community.

- Of the 85,000 animals rehomed via PetRescue, 75% of those were from community foster care groups and individual animal rescuers.
- This number is growing exponentially due to community demand, with more than 30,000 pets expected to be rehomed in 2011 alone. [PetRescue]
- Data indicate that while the number of cats and dogs in Australia is decreasing, [ACAC 2010] the numbers of pet adoptions have increased, with twice as many people getting cats and dogs from animal rescue than just a decade ago [Petcare Information and Advisory Service].

2. Community foster care groups and individual animal rescuers provide a significant benefit in the welfare of companion animals.

- The contribution of these community foster care groups and individual animal rescuers (who generally operate as self-funded non-profits) to local councils, in providing vet care, behavioural rehabilitation, boarding, volunteer hours and promotion for pets, could easily be measured in the tens of millions of dollars. Spreading the load of 'shelter pet overpopulation' to the whole community, reducing demand on council services, expanding capacity and improving animal welfare outcomes.
- Removing the pressure of the short placement window for 'death row' pets in busy shelters and pounds by placing them with community foster care groups and individual animal rescuers, allows pets to be comprehensively assessed in a home environment. It also allows potential adopters to be comprehensively screened for a good pet match. Checks on adopters homes, fencing, lifestyle and family life are usual.
- Pounds and shelters will come under increasing pressure to move away from killing as a solution to 'shelter animal overpopulation' with the public themselves driving to be more involved in the process. Nationally, major animal welfare groups have already successfully embraced a community driven, low kill model which requires effective relationships with community foster care groups and individual animal rescuers. Examples of these organisations include; The AWL Qld, The RSPCA QLD, The Sydney Dogs and Cats Home and the RSPCAACT and the RSPCA TAS.
- Effective shelters and pounds use community foster care groups and individual animal rescuers to their benefit. Pounds and shelters can and do develop situation specific Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) contracts, as an agreement between parties; ensuring good animal welfare outcomes are maintained and both parties benefit. An example of this includes the Logan Council Queensland's MOU with the RSPCA, Best Friends Rescue, Animal Welfare League and other local rescue groups to re-home, desex and microchip suitable dogs and cats.

3. Existing Victorian legislation offers extensive protection for pets being cared for by community foster care groups and individual animal rescuers

- Community foster care groups and individual animal rescuers currently operate under the Code of Practice for the Private Keeping of Dogs (Victoria) and the Code of Practice for the Private Keeping of Cats (Victoria). Given the temporary nature of animal fostering, and the comprehensive nature of both these Codes, including these groups in the Code should be a priority to maximise the number of animals are able to be saved.
- Not specifying community foster care groups and individual animal rescuers as an option for 'disposal' of pets at the end of their impound period, will increase euthanasia and deny Victoria the benefits being achieved nationally by including these groups in solving the 'shelter pet overpopulation problem'.

Key recommendations

Recommendation #1 - the inclusion of community foster care groups and individual animal rescuers in point 2.6.

PetRescue believe that community foster care groups and individual animal rescuers have a huge contribution to make to the continued development of effective and compassionate programs managing homeless and abandoned pets. To this end, community foster care groups and individual animal rescuers must be included as one of the 'disposal' options for pets'.

2.6 Euthanasia or removal of an animal from the establishment

At the conclusion of the statutory period specified in the Domestic Animals Act 1994 for seized or surrendered animals, animals must be:

- rehomed to a new owner, or
 - euthanased because of disease, injury, behaviour, age, unsuitability for sale, or
 - placed in appropriate foster care and returned at an appropriate date for rehoming, or
 - released under a written agreement to a person or body which operates in accordance with the Act to care for and dispose of the animal, at the discretion of the operations manager or veterinary practitioner.
- released to a community foster care group or an individual animal rescuer operating under the 'Code of Practice for the Private Keeping of Dogs (Victoria)' and/or the 'Code of Practice for the Private Keeping of Cats (Victoria)'.

Recommendation #2 - the removal of the restrictions around foster care in point 1.6 and 2.8.

The recognition of foster care for the treatment and rehabilitation of pets within the Code is a positive development. Shelters and pounds who use foster carers should be encouraged to do so and should be able to run their program without extra burden. Due to a wide variation of the kinds of facilities - from large pounds servicing a number of Councils, to small facilities that only needs foster care occasionally - each establishment should be able to develop its foster care requirements, according to their specific needs.

We believe that including specific time frames, limiting reasons to use foster caring and expanded auditing for carers themselves (outside normal shelter checks) is unnecessary and inappropriate. We believe the entire sections on foster caring (1.6 & 2.8) should be removed from the Code of Practice.

Based on the national experience that MOU's are successful in developing mutually beneficial relationships which produce good animal welfare outcomes, the expanded restrictions in these sections are unnecessary.

Conclusion

There is broad public support for community foster care groups and individual animal rescuers as demonstrated by an unprecedented spike in adoptions, growing interest in animal welfare and the overwhelming success of the PetRescue service.

Below is a survey of our website visitors, with more than 2,500 respondents from Victoria and nationally, all supporting the expansion and recognition of these kinds of programs. With tens of thousands of pets being successfully placed with new families each year through community foster care groups and individual animal rescuers, this industry will only continue to grow and become more effective.

We fully support development of a Codes of Practice which supports our members in facilitating pet adoptions and improving the outcomes for shelter and pound pets. As the Director of PetRescue, I would be happy to provide you with any additional statistics or examples of successful pound/shelter/rescue group relationships. I can be contacted at any time for more information on shel@petrescue.org.au.

Comments from the community

“Without community foster care groups to create a buffer for the pounds, the pounds will need more funding to increase in capacity, or there will be a sad outcome for many lost dogs. We strongly disagree with the DPI's new code and seek to have community foster care groups be formally acknowledged as a legitimate option for shelters and pounds.” Nam Tran - Altona VIC

“What a disgrace. Instead of applauding the tireless and fantastic job these pet loving foster groups and individuals are doing, the department chooses to treat them in such a harsh and unfair manner. Animals are a much loved part of society with rights and more importantly feelings and emotions. How disgraceful!” Tania [REDACTED] - Altona VIC

“The outlawing (or making illegal by omission) of these organisations is outright despicable. The law should make it easier, not harder, for those who choose to care for these innocent victims by honouring their commitment in the Victorian legislation and celebrating, not banning it.” Jenny [REDACTED] - Ascot Vale VIC

“I have fostered a few small dogs that were unwanted by their owner until they could be re-homed. The experience was wonderful and I'll never forget how great it felt to see these little dogs who would have been destroyed given to a new family to feel loved again. My children loved the experience also, they felt very proud of themselves for helping me do something so positive. Foster carers volunteer their time and money to care for someone's unwanted pet until it's re-homed. Removing foster carers from this wonderful work they do is just disgraceful. Have a heart and do the right thing for these animals.” Stacey [REDACTED] - Ballarat VIC

“I strongly support Forster carers (individuals or groups) and their work and will make my vote count regarding this issue. I am 150% against the killing of unwanted or abandoned animals.” Andrea [REDACTED] - Balwyn North VIC

“Releasing unwanted dogs and cats to a foster care organisation is a vital and wanted practice that needs to be continued. The community wants it, demands that it be allowed to continue. We are judged, as a society, on how we treat those who cannot speak for themselves. We need to yell it from every roof top that we cannot continue to needlessly kill unwanted animals. There is another way- fostering. We need to do more to let the government know that we want to use our voices to speak on behalf of these beautiful and loving animals.” Kim [REDACTED] - Bayswater VIC

“Unfortunately, there will always be pets that for no fault of theirs end up homeless for various reasons. Fortunately, there are good people within the communities that foster/adopt these unfortunate homeless pets so they too can enjoy a loving home and shower their carer/owner unconditional love and adoration. In the past, I have adopted 6 dogs, no regrets - honoured to have the privilege. Let the foster groups from PetRescue continue their excellent work and make this a better world for the animals that need rescuing from their plight.” Maree [REDACTED] - Beaumaris VIC

“Each year thousands of pets are dumped, surrendered or abandoned and local councils cannot cope with the constant influx of unwanted animals. At one stage euthanasia seemed the only option, but that is no longer the case. Hundreds of animal rescue groups, run by thousands of volunteers in every state of Australia are making a huge impact by fostering these unwanted animals in their own homes. They ask for nothing more than the opportunity to continue to do their work and it would be a disgrace if these carers are not included in the New Code of Practice. So many animals will needlessly be destroyed.” Eva [REDACTED] - Bell Post Hill VIC

“This is an essential service, I believe that any animal should not be put down, just because it does not have a home, at all costs we should be finding homes and supporting the Community Foster Care Groups.” Karen [REDACTED] - Bonbeach VIC

“My gorgeous dog was left outside a pound overnight. She was fostered by a community group's carer for four months, during which time, the carer and the group were able to assess her needs and personality, and ensure that she went to the right home, so that she will never face that situation again. She visits a retirement village each day and brings such joy to the residents, who are not allowed pets. She's been doing that for 17 months, and will be for many years to come. Without the option of fostering, she would have been killed. Not only is that obscene, but what a waste of a life that makes others' days always a bit happier.” Lynne [REDACTED] - Brighton VIC

“I believe the foster homes organised by foster care groups and animal rescuers are a very valuable resource, and should be included in the new Code. To ignore them would be both inefficient and unethical. Animals are looked after very well by these groups in a more humane and individualised setting, and get one on one love until adoption occurs. The community should not be ignored in this code, and you need many options in looking after the needs of abused or unwanted animals. Please help these groups to continue their fine work, and allow this more personal and humane option to continue and grow.” Rosa [REDACTED] - Brighton VIC

“I think what the foster carers do for all these poor animals is immeasurable. When i was spending time looking at the PetRescue website (before we adopted our beautiful puppy!) I was really taken aback by the amount of new dogs that would be added everyday. The thought that most of these poor animals would be killed instead of given a second chance is devastating. They deserve to be given a second chance. Why change the system when foster care for animals works?” Sarah [REDACTED] - Castlemaine VIC

“Too many good dogs will be put down if fostering through all the different rescues is stopped. The other thing is that fostering brings out the true character of the dog where being in a pound environment is so stressful and can show things that are not true.” Akke [REDACTED] - Cheltenham VIC

“I adopted my pet via the PetRescue website, where I was able to connect with foster carers in the community. My dog had been handed over to them rather than to a pound to be put down, thank goodness. He has become an integral part of our family. The foster carers who looked after him assessed his nature, gave very accurate feedback to us about him which allowed us to choose the right dog, and provided him with exceptional personal attention. I am a big supporter of this humane process and I think its important that volunteers are able to continue legally to do so.” Kirstie [REDACTED] - Clifton Hill VIC

"Please allow the important of groups who endeavour to provide these unwanted pets the opportunity to find loving homes. The shelters can only take so many at one time and the rescue groups have a band of wonderful foster carers willing to take on these animals and take care of them, rehabilitate them, so they can find a suitable loving home. I totally support the idea of groups like these having the ability through an established network of committed volunteers to provide foster homes to neglected and unwanted animals who just need a little love and acceptance. Please please, allow the fantastic work of the foster carers and the volunteer groups to continue. They aren't asking for anything other than the chance to continue their mission to save lives. Whilst pet stores are allow to continue trading selling animals for profit, why can't you let these not for profit groups rehouse animals as well?" Becky [REDACTED] - Cranbourne VIC

"When I was looking for a dog for our family we looked at all the shelters, but it was too difficult to travel all over Melbourne. I insisted that we would only adopt not purchase from a pet shop. I went online and discovered PetRescue, where I found out about dogs being fostered out and why. We found the new addition to our family through one of these foster carers. Without this foster carer my dog, approximately 12 months old would have been terminated. He had been rescued from a shelter in country Victoria on his "last" day and brought to Melbourne." Helen [REDACTED]s - Croydon VIC

"Foster carers enable pets to live and have rehabilitation if necessary in order for them to find permanent homes. I believe animal shelters and pounds often do not have the resources to keep pets for the period sometimes needed to find suitable homes. I worked as a volunteer at a shelter and have seen this for myself. I have also seen the paid staff working very hard and having difficulty coping with the number of people wishing to be volunteers. Volunteers need paid staff to train and supervise them and I left because of this problem. It is therefore unfair to say that volunteers only are able to foster, as there are many willing to foster but unable to cope with the lack of supervision at a shelter." Victoria [REDACTED] - Croydon VIC

"Foster carers do invaluable work and they all volunteer their time, money etc so what the hell is the problem? It seems that the government likes to attack the easy targets that they hope will not fight back. They would be better putting their time and effort into actually doing something more about those people who cause animals to go into foster care. Leave these angels and the way they work alone." Helen [REDACTED] - Darraweit Guim VIC

"I am an active member of Airedale Rescue & Adoption Network of Australia (AireNet Australia). Both fostering and adopting of homeless Airedales is done within our group, not just in Victoria but in all States. Our Mission is to ensure the safe placement of any needy Airedale into a secure and loving 'forever home'. We are committed to supporting the need for shelters, pounds etc to be able to advise approved Rescue groups of any dog of that breed being available for fostering and adoption, through the auspices of that Rescue group. To do otherwise, as you also state, is to condemn many animals to death. Thank you for enabling this submission to be made, on behalf of all needy animals." Sue [REDACTED] - Dixons Creek VIC

"Without foster carers and centres who spend their time and money saving these wonderful animals, we would not have our pets Jordan and Jenna. I am sure many councils would not put the time, money and effort into rehoming the animals that come into their pounds, so it is vital that community organisations are allowed to continue with their wonderful work. The people who take on the task of rescuing and sheltering and fostering these animals deserve to be treated with respect and given all the help they need." Roberta [REDACTED] - Donvale VIC

"Foster care is the backbone of animal rescue. There can be no progress in animal welfare under a code which constrains or removes this vital link in the rescue chain. The idea that an animal can be released to a pet shop to make a profit but not to a foster carer to meet the animal's needs is a grotesque parody of welfare." Sally [REDACTED] - Eltham VIC

"The experience of fostering was extremely rewarding. I fostered a pregnant cat until she had her litter. Although I could not keep her or the kitten, I looked after all of them until an appropriate home could be found for them both. They all went to loving homes and it was an extremely rewarding experience. Please, please, please include volunteers and community foster groups. Animals need all of the love, support and protection that we can give them." Michelle [REDACTED] - Endeavour Hills VIC

"I've fostered dogs, puppies, cats and kittens through Victorian rescue groups (foster networks). I've found the experience incredibly rewarding, and am proud to say that although these animals (through no fault of their own) were going to get put to sleep in Victorian pounds, they were given another chance & are now living the high life as spoilt pets in their adoptive homes... and I helped make that happen! Perfectly adoptable, sweet animals are being put to sleep for no good reason other than there are just too many of them for pounds and shelters to cope with. Fostering programs solve this issue, and stop the unnecessary killing of innocent lives." Emma [REDACTED] - Forest Hill VIC

"Community foster carers are amazing people who should be encouraged and supported." Nicole [REDACTED] - Frankston South VIC

"I think this legislation is terrible and is totally unacceptable. Foster care community groups and individual animal rescuers MUST be allowed to continue to operate to save the lives of pets who would otherwise be euthanased. The rescues save lives. I am very concerned for the future of animals who through no fault of their own end up in council pounds. This is taking away their main chance of getting necessary medical care if need be and being rehomed." Philippa [REDACTED] - Garfield VIC

"I am a foster carer for a community rescue group & a dog trainer. I have had the privilege to save the lives of many dogs that would otherwise have been destroyed. I provide them with training so that they are ready to enter a loving family home and even participate in dog sports such as agility & flyball or even contribute to the community by working in hospitals as therapy dogs. Please support this very important community service." Camilla [REDACTED] - Geelong VIC

"I fostered a JRT for a community rescue group. As an experience dog trainer I was able to give him the time and training needed to make him a great little family member who would fit in and be a joy in his forever home. As well as just giving a homeless pet a roof over their head and food and care - private fostering allows for a pet's true nature be more accurately assessed. This means the pets can be better matched to their potential forever home." Wendy [REDACTED] - Geelong VIC

"Please, please take into consideration the wonderful work that community and individual animal rescuers do. They save many lives of lost and or dumped animals that deserve to live and deserve a loving family to live with." Elizabeth [REDACTED] - Glenrowan VIC

"To not include foster carers under this new Code of Practice for the Management of Dogs and Cats in Shelters and Pounds shows a gross lack of understanding about the vital and important role these community volunteers play. When are you lot going to genuinely start appreciating community volunteers?" Ellissa [REDACTED] - Glenroy VIC

"The Victorian Government should be focusing their time, resources & energy on strengthening legislation in this state to further protect companion animals, rather than destroying their chances of rehabilitation and rehoming by not legally recognising the crucial work that foster carers provide. The government should be focusing on eliminating the sale of animals from pet shops and should be encouraging and supporting the work of rescue groups, shelters, foster carers and the like." Sam [REDACTED] - Grovedale VIC

"After traveling to different parts of the world I am proud of the standards that Australians set for Animal Welfare. To eliminate the assistance of foster care would set the standards back years. If people are prepared to give their time and care to assist the rehoming of abandoned or homeless animals then they should be applauded." Elizabeth [REDACTED] - Hampton Park VIC

"I have fostered many dogs over the years and had enormous success rehoming them. I believe this was because I worked on improving their social skills (like training them to walk on leash). It's easier for a person to see the potential in a dog that is in a real home environment and not caged and frightened." Sheena [REDACTED] - Hillside VIC

"I adopted my kitten from a foster carer in February. The foster carer I dealt with was a lovely lady that genuinely cared for the cats in her care and was very helpful in suggesting which kitten would be the most suitable match for my household. Whenever I had any questions about the introduction of the kitten to my home or assistance with training she promptly replied to my emails. I think foster carers do a wonderful job and play a vital role in ensuring that the pets in their care go to the right homes and get the chance that they deserve to be placed with loving owners." Tanya [REDACTED] - Keilor Downs VIC

"Please do not needlessly condemn beautiful animals to death when there is a perfect solution to the problem in community foster care groups. Nothing needs to be done except allowing the groups to do what they already have been!!!" Bianca [REDACTED] - Kilsyth VIC

"Fostering was a wonderful experience for our family, and led us to adopting more than one pet. It is the best thing we have ever done! Fostering is an invaluable community resource that saves countless thousands of animals each year. To lose it would be a blight on our country and society." Jeremy [REDACTED] - Knoxfield VIC

"It seems like a small change to add foster care groups and individual animal rescuers into the Code, I don't see the reason why it may not be included. I just couldn't imagine my little man being killed when there could have been extra help out there for him." Julie [REDACTED] - Langwarrin VIC

"Foster care groups and individual animal rescuers do a wonderful job. Any society that loves animals should acknowledge and protect their contribution." Nicole Peters - Mitcham VIC

"I have 2 wonderful dogs that I have adopted from foster care. They are a wonderful loving addition to my household, my children love them and I would not hesitate to foster a pet in need to save it from a worse fate." Jodi [REDACTED] - Montrose VIC

"We adopted little Ella from an amazing loving foster home and the whole adoption was a breeze. All of the animals in the home were incredibly well looked after and I believe any animal should have the opportunity to find a better life and not have their life ended due to a few bureaucrats who do not believe in the fostering system." Brooke [REDACTED] - Mount Evelyn VIC

"I am the President of Peninsula Cat Rescue and with a team of loyal fosterers we have been able to save and re-home many cats and kittens that have come to us. We desex, microchip, vaccinate and worm all cats and kittens that come into our care all through funds we raise. We do this because we care about what happens to them and are a stepping stone to the next part of their life with a new loving home. As a fully registered charity, we will continue to be a voice for cats and kittens who would otherwise be euthanased and will give as many as we can the chance to live a happy life with a new owner." Joy [REDACTED] - Mt Eliza VIC

"I adopted a kitten from a rescue group who rehome many cats/kittens & dogs/puppies each year. I am also a member of Australia's prominent online cat community and see/hear firsthand the good work these rescue groups do. To exclude these groups would see many, many animals destroyed for no good reason please reconsider this exclusion as without these rescue groups I would not have my beautiful Ella." Karen [REDACTED] - Mt Evelyn VIC

"I have adopted 5 pets that were fostered by community groups & it is the BEST way to find a suitable pet & to find the right home for a pet based on their personality, temperament etc. These factors cannot be assessed effectively in a shelter/pound environment, and so scared, stressed animals in a pound may not find a loving home, whereas in foster care they bloom & their true personality shines through, which leads to happy adoptions." Maria [REDACTED] - Narre Warren South

"I think the work that community foster care groups do is amazing. When I was looking for a second dog in late 2007 I found the foster care groups I had contact with to be wonderfully helpful and completely focused on the right home for the dogs they were fostering, as well as ensuring that any new dog would be the right fit for my existing dog. I completely support the wonderful work of these community foster care groups and will always use PetRescue and these groups as a main point of contact when looking to adopt future animals." Dominique [REDACTED] - North Melbourne VIC

"Working in a vet clinic I have come across many animals that would have been euthanased if I had not fostered and re-homed them. I have helped ease the burden on shelters by fostering these pets myself. Fostering pets is an important part of animal rescue, this gives the animals a chance to live in a home environment and makes them well adjusted pets for their new family. There will never be enough cages in the shelters to house all the stray animals." Stephanie [REDACTED] - Pakenham VIC

"I have just adopted a beautiful Border Collie/Samoyed cross and will be picking him up on Good Friday. Community foster care groups & individual animal rescuers do a fantastic job and need the support of the community and state government and should be included in the code." Russell [REDACTED] - Pascoe Vale VIC

"I run an adoption service for Golden Retrievers, putting people in touch with each other. This enables the owners to place their pets in a loving home of their choice and not having to surrender them to the animal shelters which are overloaded with unwanted pets. Community foster care and individual animal rescuers are an important part of giving these needy animals a second chance to life. Please consider in amending the "Code" to include these special groups of caring people." Carol [REDACTED] - Ringwood North VIC

"Harry was on his last day at Mildura Pound when he was rescued by a community rescue group. I saw his photo and thought I'd take him. He's a terrific dog and a perfect match for our family. Rescue groups must be included in the Code. They are grass roots rescuers and also advocates for unwanted animals." Jane [REDACTED] - Rosanna VIC

"We cannot do enough to help animals. We need Community foster car groups and individual animal rescuers to provide that helping hand to those of our four legged friends who can't help themselves. In this day and age we shouldn't have to ask permission to do this, it should be encouraged so that millions of homeless animals can be saved and in turn provide companionship for us humans." Debra [REDACTED] - Rosebud VIC

"I think its vitally important to include foster groups and rescue groups under the Code and ensure that animals get the very best chance to be rehomed, rescued and given all the necessary medical treatment they can get. Anything less is not a true reflection of what the Victorian community expects." Rose [REDACTED] - Sunbury VIC

"I can't understand how these groups can be further disadvantaged, given the amazing jobs the individuals & organisations do. I have two truly beautiful dogs, both of whom are with me now due to these people. Both were a day or do away from being destroyed. I implore the government to rethink its policy. Getting animals from smaller foster rescue groups is hugely beneficial, as they know the animal intimately & can provide invaluable information as the the animal's suitability to you." Julie [REDACTED] - Teesdale VIC

"We are looking for another pet in the near future, and will certainly be taking one that has come through the PetRescue process. I believe these community groups provide an essential service for all pet lovers, and also for those people who find themselves in the unfortunate situation of no longer being able to care for their pet. Please amend the wording of the legislation to allow these fabulous and under-recognised groups to continue their wonderful work." Kate [REDACTED] - The Basin VIC

“When we made the decision to bring a new pet dog into our home, we visited many shelters and foster homes. This is the first time that we have adopted a rescue dog. What was incredibly striking was the confidence and balanced personality the dogs were able to show in their foster home. We had the opportunity of getting to know the dog, in a relaxed and comfortable environment. The dogs in the kennels did not have the same opportunity to show their personality. The foster carers were very helpful in talking to us about the dog's personality, and incredibly supportive about ongoing care - physical and behavioural. By fostering the dog in a normal environment, they were really able to get to know the dog really well. The shelters on their own could not provide this rich information. As new adopters, this gave us the confidence and ongoing support for a very smooth transition. We have now gained a wonderful new canine companion to our family! I truly believe that without the foster carers, we would not have been as confident to adopt and achieve such a great outcome. I strongly believe that foster care has a critical part to play in rehoming pets. Both the pet and the new owner get the best chance possible!” Melissa [REDACTED] - Templestowe Lower VIC

“Fostering is an important part of the adoption process. Foster groups and individuals are the unsung heroes behind many adoptions. It is crucial that foster groups and individual rescuers are included in the Code so that communities and animals could continue to benefit from their work and effort.” Josephine [REDACTED] - West Melbourne VIC

“The community program is essential to assist animals that may not have been treated the way they deserve to be. Giving these animals a chance at rehabilitation and to be shown what it is like to be loved and cared for properly is the least we as humans can do. Instead of stopping foster care programs the government should be funding grants to assist in paying for desexing and other veterinary expenses these animals incur on their way to better health.” Tania [REDACTED] - Wyndham Vale VIC

Petition

I ... believe that community foster care groups and individual animal rescuers should be included in the Code and be encouraged to continue to save the lives of animals who would otherwise be destroyed."
