

Hi, my name is Raffy Special Needs

Looking for love

Male Persian Mix Cat

Our very special little man, Raffy is now taking applications! Raffy is a Persian mix and is about 10 months old now, but small for his age. Raffadoodle has a deformed back leg (who we call Juan!) Essentially Raffy was born with his back right leg on backwards! His leg is permanently bent backwards and he uses his 'knee' for balance and support. When Raffy first arrived, we fully planned to have his leg amputated, but after many chats with our vet and having watched how he uses it, we have, after a lot of thought, decided to for now, at least to leave Raffy's "crazy friend Juan" (as we call his leg!) in place for a number of reasons. Firstly, and most importantly, it's the strong recommendation of our fabulous and very clever vet! Secondly, being a "NQR" (not quite right!) kitteh, and with his very slow development, we're just not prepared to risk an anesthetic, for an operation that isn't medically necessary. Raffy has no pain or issues with "Juan", other than him having a mind of his own, which occasionally means getting in Raffy's way! The big concern with removing the leg...
