

Hi, my name is Mingga

Looking for love

Medium Female Mixed Breed Dog

Mingga is a beautiful young girl who is looking for the perfect forever home. She is in care with other dogs, and gets along with them well. She loves her treats and toys, and is keen to please. She would love a home with another dog for company, and to play with, or sleep next to! She enjoys being inside with the family, and is almost 100% house trained but is used to a doggie door. She is of unknown breeding as she was saved from a pound, but is smart, and will do well with a little more training. She still young, although past the puppy destructive stage. She travels well in the car, and likes to go for walks, or run around off lead (she has great recall, but has not been let off lead in an unfenced area). She is pretty quiet, but is a good alert dog to let you know if someone is around. She has been well behaved with the children that she has met since being in care.
