

Hi, my name is Perri

Looking for love

Medium Male Terrier Mix Dog

Perri is a happy boy that loves to be with his humans. A perfect forever home for Perri will be with his new owners spending a good proportion of the day with him so either a member of the family working from home or working part time hours. Perri would be happy being an only pet. He would co-exist with a smaller dog but is much more human focused than canine. Perri has reached a very good weight of 24.2kg but will always need to have his weight monitored. He needs regular exercise on a daily basis. He has been diagnosed with hypothyroidism in the past and has been taking thyroid medication. He has recently been assessed by our vet and his thyroid levels are stable - medication will continue and he will need to be reassessed at 6 monthly intervals. Perri hasn't lived with young children but a household with older children would be fine. Perri needs to go to a cat free home. He is more a medium sized dog rather than a small and is quite strong on the lead so would not suit an elderly or frail person.
