

Hi, my name is Ivy

Looking for love

Female Dsh Mix Cat

Hi, my name is Ivy. I'm a sweet, shy kitten, but I don't take long to come out of my shell. I am looking for a patient, calm and quiet home that will love me forever. I am a gentle girl and look forward to your company and sharing a fuzzy blanket with you on the couch, and watching our favourite rom coms together. I would like owners who are committed to continuing positive socialisation as I can be quite unsure of new places and people. I would also like an adult household as young kids could be a little too energetic for me, and I would like a home that's not so busy - so that I can get all the attention! I do have a little bit of a sensitive stomach so I would appreciate if my future owners could provide me with good quality sensitive stomach food for me to continue on so that I can be my best, healthiest self! I have FIV which doesn't stop me from my usual fun cat antics but it does mean I have some special requirements, such as being the only cat in the house however this is also just because I need to be the only one gettin' all of your lovin'. If you think that I'm the on...
