

Hi, my name is Halley

Bright and bubbly

Medium Female Dingo Mix Dog

Starving, dehydrated and covered in dermatitis, this wild heart is one of the lucky ones. Rescued by some caring people she was given a chance. They contacted us for help and we wasted no time to come to her aid. Despite her struggles her bright personality shone through. So bright that we named her Halley after one of the brightest comets in the world. After being in care with us for four weeks Halley is now happy and healthy and searching for her forever family. Halley is a very confident young dingo hybrid who will thrive in an environment where she can be part of the daily hustle and bustle. She settles quickly in new environments and loves other people and dogs. Halley will benefit from having another canine in her new home. Someone she can play with and have for company and companionship. Halley will be enrolled in puppy class over the next few weeks to continue with her confidence building and socialisation. Halley's new family will need to ensure she receives enough enrichment and stimulation as she develops to ensure she continues growing into a well rounded young...
