

Hi, my name is Santa

Looking for love

Medium Male Mixed Dog

A Helping Hand Can Be The Difference Between Life and Death... Santa was lying in the street, (bruised, punctured and battered) when Darcie decided that enough was enough and decided to look after him. It appears that Santa had been left behind and wasn't handling street life too well. He was being attacked by ruffian street dog gangs even though he laid down in surrender. Santa had been consistently attacked and his condition was deteriorating rapidly.. If it weren't for Darcie's compassionate intervention, there is little doubt that Santa would no longer be alive. Since there is no vet on Mornington Island, I am sure that Darcie had to improvise on more than one occasion.. She managed to get a course of antibiotics for Santa and that plus some nutritious food soon had Santa looking a lot better. During his recovery, Darcie called on PHC to see if we could take this gentle boy into care. We were short of carers so it was going to be a challenge but we simply couldn't leave him on Mornington Island to suffer. Our next challenge was to get him to Mount Isa but $600 bought h...
