

Hi, my name is Buttons

Sweet & loving

Male Dwarf lop Rabbit

□ Buttons is on the lookout for his forever home □ Buttons is a cute boy who can be a little shy whilst he gets to know you but this is only because he is vision impaired. Buttons doesn't have great eye sight and relies on his other senses a lot instead. Once he figures out and adapts to you and his surroundings he's absolutely wonderful. Very affectionate and loving, loves to be cuddled and have pats, loves following you around and asking for attention. He is great with other bunnies and a home that has an existing female bunny would be great so he has a companion to help him get around however he is also very human orientated so would love a human who is home a lot for him. Buttons needs a calm, quiet, loving environment as being a prey animal already and then being vision impaired on top of that is of course very scary for him. Ideally no small children or only very calm children, no boisterous animals around him either. Buttons must be adopted to an indoor home only, outdoor enclosures are permitted for day use but he must be in a secure predator, weather and mosq...
