

Hi, my name is Lennox

Looking for love

Male Mini Lop Rabbit

Lennox is a cheeky boy, with a need for space and freedom! He feels claustrophobic in small spaces, and will go mental. This boy loves to find a way out, which probably explains how he ended up at the pound. He is friendly, but only if he doesn't think you are out to catch him. If he does, he becomes as slippery as butter, and finds spaces under cupboards you never knew you had! You may notice a smudge of green on his face. It's slowly fading which is great, his whole face was bright green a while ago. But don't worry, he wasn't spray painted by a delinquent. Rather, he dyed his fur himself. You see, Lennox thought it was a good idea to throw his multicoloured wooden chew toy into his water bowl. The food colouring from the toy coloured the water, and then he decided to roll the wet toy in his bowl until he was covered green. Gave me quite a shock! This boy is currently going through a big moult. If you think he is cute, just remember he is twice as cute in real life. He will keep his new owner very entertained, that's for sure! Update: Lennox has improved the most out ...
