

Hi, my name is Xena

Looking for love

Medium Female American Staffy Mix Dog

Please keep in mind that Xena is currently being filmed as part of the television program 'The Pet Rescuers' and her adoption will be filmed for this TV show Xena is confident, sociable and full of beans! She's ready to find her forever family today. Xena will be a large breed dog when she is fully grown. This spunky puppy is after a family who has enough time to spend with her and provide ongoing socialisation, training and playtime. Xena is living with other dogs in her foster home, and could live with a sociable male dog in her forever home to help teach her all about being a dog. Xena does mouth quite hard and will need a confident and experienced guardian who can be patient with her and that understand all the hard work it takes to make sure Xena is a resilient adult when she grows up. Xena came to us and developed Carpal Laxity Syndrome, In Xena's case she appears to have carpal hyperextension (That is where the patient is more 'flat footed' than normal. On initial presentation she also had mild carpal flexion where the wrist bowed forward. Our vets ...
