

Hi, my name is Professor Pancakes

Big soft boy

Male Domestic Mix Rabbit

Professor Pancakes is seeking a very special forever home. He is very friendly, curious and cheeky. At about a year old, he was surrendered to us as his family couldn't keep him anymore. He would love a place that will allow him a life out of his cage more often than not. At the moment he gets all day either indoors and outdoors out of his cage and only spends time in his cage at night. This is a big requirement for him due to his love to explore and his personality. He is desexed and microchipped. He is yet to have his vaccinations due stock issues. If you think you could offer him a loving forever home, he would love to be a part of a family that can give him lots of attention and freedom.

He does not have any known medical issues. Will require a vaccination once it is available again.
